Jackson House

By Saralee Stark

Six times a year CHI volunteers to serve lunch at Jackson House. It's great fun for all of us and we are doing a 'mitzvah' for the people of Hot Springs. Our thanks go out to Patti Fleischner, Mary and Stuart Klompus and Sue Koppel for their help on Thursday, March 28th.

We volunteer on the fourth Thursday of every other month from 10AM – 1PM. Next volunteer day is Thursday, May 23rd. Please call Saralee Stark at 501/760-2114 or email jimnsarstark@cablelynx.com.

You'll be doing a good thing and have a fun time doing it.

“A Matter for Discussion”

Rabbi Richard Chapin

Summer's Coming

It's hard to believe we're approaching the holiday of Shavuot, known as the time of the "Giving of the Law" (MATAN TORAH).

While this indeed is the last of the pilgrimage festivals (preceded by Sukkot and Pesach), and while religious school concludes this month, we should remember that Judaism is a 52-week religion. Vacations and warmer weather notwithstanding, Judaism continues throughout the summer months.

A thought and a proposal: let's make it a temple project to read one book of Jewish content between now and Rosh Hashanah (which falls very very early this year -- Wednesday, September 4!). And let's schedule a session to discuss that book some time during the High Holy Day period.

I'd be happy to volunteer to lead the discussion. Please email to me a book you would like to read and review.

With warmest wishes for a beautiful month of May.

Richard and Jeanne

Donations Needed

Jackson House is in DIRE need of household goods – kitchen items, furniture, mattresses, etc. We will be happy to pick up your household donations. Please call Sue Koppel at 501/624-3986 or email suebob@cablelynx.com to volunteer.

All contributions are greatly appreciated.

Religious School

By Karen Johnson

The Religious School bounced back from Spring Break with energy and excitement. Everyone was so happy to come back to school and share their Passover stories. But as the school year draws down to a close the students know they have a lot of learning to pack into the weeks that are left. To understand Yom Hashoah, Holocaust Remembrance Day, we held a round-table discussion where the children asked questions and discussed their feelings. The primary question asked by the children was, "Why?" but we understood there wasn't a very good answer to that question.

The First Grade class took an imaginary journey to Israel and learned all about the country. The Third Grade class had a special Shabbat mitzvah class and made decorated challah knives. Then the classes combined to prepare for Israeli Independence Day. They learned about the founding of Israel, watched a video, and listened to 'Hatikva'. To celebrate the occasion, the children made awesome tie-dye t-shirts to wear during the parade.

Sisterhood

By Ruth Sedler

As we wind down our Sisterhood year and my presidency I would like to thank everyone who has been so instrumental in making the last two years so wonderful. Our membership numbers have been high, participation has been gratifying, our members have given us wonderful programs about topics that were of interest not only to them, but to our membership as a whole, and our lunches have been feasts. Members have gladly taken charge of large events which have turned out to be well run and fun for everyone attending. We have had new and creative projects that have improved our facility and preserved our history for posterity. So many people have participated that to try to name everyone would be difficult, but you all know who you are, and I thank you for helping to make my two years as president successful. I know I came in as president having never even served a position on the Sisterhood board and having only been a member of Sisterhood for less than a year, but with everyone's acceptance, help, and support you all made it possible for me to fulfill my role as president.

We are not quite done yet. We have one final meeting this year. It will be on Monday May 6 at 11 AM in Burgauer Hall. For our final meeting we will be having a "bring your favorite salad to share" theme. I will finish my final agenda which will include making a decision on continuing membership in WRJ and voting for woman of the year. The new officers will be installed and I will at that point turn over the reins to our new president Carol Kleinman. The other newly elected officers are :

- Vice President: Anita Williams
- Secretary: Karen Reagler,
- Treasurer: Ruth Sedler.

Moving to my new position as treasurer I will

Weekly Parshah

May

B'har/B'chukotai

May 4, 2013

G-d promises that if the people of Israel will keep His commandments, they will enjoy material prosperity and dwell secure in their homeland. But He also delivers a harsh “rebuke,” warning of the exile, persecution and other evils that will befall them if they abandon their covenant with Him.

Nevertheless, “Even when they are in the land of their enemies, I will not cast them away; nor will I ever abhor them, to destroy them and to break My covenant with them; for I am the L-rd their G-d.”

B'midbar

May 11, 2013

In the Sinai Desert, G-d says to conduct a census of the twelve tribes of Israel. Moses counts 603,550 men of draftable age (20 to 60 years); the tribe of Levi, numbering 22,300 males age one month and older, is counted separately.

The Levites are to serve in the Sanctuary, replacing the firstborn, whose number they approximated, who were disqualified when they participated in the worshipping of the Golden Calf. The 273 firstborn who lacked a Levite to replace them had to pay a five-shekel “ransom” to redeem themselves.

Naso

May 18, 2013

Completing the headcount of the Children of Israel taken in the Sinai Desert, a total of 8,580 Levite men between the ages of 30 and 50 are counted in a tally of those who will be doing the actual work of transporting the Tabernacle.

G-d communicates to Moses the law of the sotah, the wayward wife suspected of unfaithfulness to her husband. Also given is the law of the nazir, who forswears wine, lets his or her hair grow long, and is forbidden to become contaminated through contact with a dead body. Aaron and his descendants, the kohanim, are instructed on how to bless the people of Israel.

B'haalot'cha

May 25, 2013

A “Second Passover” is instituted in response to the petition, “Why should we be deprived?” by a group of Jews who were unable to bring the Passover offering in its appointed time because they were ritually impure. G-d instructs Moses on the procedures for Israel’s journeys and encampments in the desert, and the people journey in formation from Mount Sinai, where they had been camped for nearly a year.

The people are dissatisfied with their “bread from heaven” (the manna), and demand that Moses supply them with meat. Moses appoints 70 elders, to whom he imparts of his spirit, to assist him in the burden of governing the people. Miriam speaks negatively of Moses, and is punished with leprosy; Moses prays for her healing, and the entire community waits seven days for her recovery.

Congregation House of Israel

Interviewer: Rabbi Richard Chapin

Producer: Mary Klompus

Cameraman: Stuart Klompus

Stars; members of our congregation

In one week we recorded 33 interviews. Each and everyone were amazing. Some made me cry and some made me smile and laugh and all made me very happy to be a part of CHI. Our plan is to keep recording. If you escaped us this time there will be many other opportunities. I hope to record again in June and again in the fall when the Rabbi is here for the holidays. We all have a story and are all a part of CHI. Everyone is important to our past, present and most important to our future.

Sisterhood purchased the video camera, and after this project is completed I hope members will feel free to use it to film temple and Sunday School activities. We also purchased an external hard drive to store all the videos for safe keeping. The original SD cards will be kept in a safe place for archival purposes. Individual DVD's of each interview will be kept at the temple and available for anyone to view at their convenience. Another copy of all interviews will be given to ISJL and the Hot Springs Historical Society.

If anyone wants a copy of their own personal interview, please email me, and I will be happy to make a copy for you.

Thank you everyone for being so supportive of this project. I think future generations will appreciate our act of love.

Thank you also to Kenneth and Annette Baim for their generous contribution.

again be mailing out dues letters the beginning of the summer. Hopefully everyone will again be supportive of the idea of paying their dues prior to the beginning of the year. I will also have a space to fill in any amount you might want to contribute to the Back Pack Project. I have spoken to Hot Springs School District. They are again doing the project. All monies given to the school district are used for students of Hot Springs School District. Other organizations have similar events, but our donations go directly to Hot Springs School District and stay there. So everyone, even if you are not a member of Sisterhood and would like to help this cause, please mail your donations made out to Sisterhood to Ruth Sedler, 152 Blue Heron Drive, Hot Springs AR 71913 and marked for the Back Pack Project. Last year we were able to donate over $700.00 to this worthy cause. Thanks to everyone in advance for your help.

Again thank you to everyone in Sisterhood and the entire Congregation House of Israel family for making my last two years such a rewarding experience.

Is the Pope Catholic?

The Pontif's favorite painting is by Marc Chagall

By Menachem Wecker

Gallery 395A is tucked away in a corner on the third floor of the Art Institute of Chicago's modern wing. After passing works by Joan Miró, Alberto Giacometti and Salvador Dalí, viewers enter Gallery 395, which features a glass wall overlooking Lake Michigan and is packed with Constantin Brâncuși, Alberto Giacometti and Henry Moore sculptures. Turning a corner, one is confronted by a nook, which contains a Max Beckmann self-portrait, Georges Braque's "Woman at an Easel" and Marc Chagall's "White Crucifixion" (1938).

Despite its inauspicious presentation, the Chagall painting has been making international news. In interviews with Francesca Ambrogetti and Sergio Rubin for the 2010 biography "El Jesuita," Pope Francis identified "White Crucifixion," which depicts a Jewish Jesus, wearing a tallit instead of a loincloth, as his favorite work of art. "He likes us, he really does," Tweeted Miriam Shaviv, a columnist for Britain's Jewish Chronicle, about the pope.

But there's more to the painting than "owning" Jesus as a Jew. Surrounding Jesus, we see a synagogue, a Torah scroll and a shtetl burning, as armed men march carrying red flags. And in the bottom-right corner, the Wandering Jew, donning a blue cap and a green coat, lugs a sack as he trudges past the smoking Torah.

That the chief executive of the Catholic Church has an affinity for a painting that was created by a Russian Jewish artist and also includes the symbol of the eternal wanderer, who was punished for abusing Jesus and became the pretext for centuries of anti-Semitism, is drawing a range of reactions.

"Chagall is a common preference of viewers who are not interested in the art world," said James Elkins, professor of art history at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago.

Without evidence that the pope has an extensive interest in visual art, it's likely that his preference for Chagall has something in common with others' affinity for the works of Georges Rouault, Henri Matisse of the Vence Chapel and Maurice Denis, according to Elkins, author of "On the Strange Place of Religion in Contemporary Art" (Routledge, 2004). "They are among the rare exceptions to the general rule that modern and contemporary art are disengaged from the church," he said.

"I know nothing of the pope's taste, so I have no idea why he likes that painting," said Matthew Baigell, who is professor emeritus of art history at Rutgers University and has published extensively on Jewish artists. Marc Michael Epstein, professor of religion at Vassar College, in Poughkeepsie, N.Y., sees things differently. The notion of a Jewish Jesus and its reference to Jews and other marginalized groups is very appealing post-Vatican II, he said.

The painting is more about Russian history, Epstein added, but the pope's embrace of "White Crucifixion" may signal "an identification with the suffering Jewish Jesus, which is interesting."

Chicago's Loyola University Museum of Art is exhibiting some of Chagall's work in "Graven Images: Marc Chagall's Bible Illustrations" through June 16.

"The choice of a favorite painting is always personal," said Jonathan Canning, senior curator at the Loyola museum. Canning declined to comment specifically on the pope's aesthetic preferences.

Although he assumes that Chagall's works with Christian imagery are responses to commissions, Canning says that Chagall was clearly introducing a new interpretation of the crucifixion. "He's definitely challenging someone who's used to a traditional, Western, Christian interpretation of the crucifixion," he said.
